"India disagreed with Nepal's constitution, which they finally ratified in August. They had been working on it (and fighting over it) for six years. India says that the people in the Terai, many of whom are Indians or Indian extraction have been given not enough power." This is basically how my friend Juliette C. has been describing the reasons for the problems the people of Nepal are suffering from at the moment... (earthquake thoughts are NOT included here.. - seems to be a different story altogether - for the ones in power.. - POWERGAMES suck and the poor ones suffer while the ones "in power" can't get enough of it!)
